oregano, 1 cup herbaceous onion, 1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced, 2 tomatoes, sliced, salt to taste, 1/2 cup oil, 1 package (18-ounce) cheese slices.

Wrap aluminum foil around the crust of each half loaf.

Mix meat, onion, garlic, oregano and 1 cup of the herbaceous sauce. Spread meat mixture on each half loaf, building up sides slightly. Top with sliced mushrooms and pour remaining 1/2 cup herbaceous sauce over them.

Preheat broiler for 5 minutes. Broil 7 to 8 inches from heating unit until meat is cooked, about 10 minutes. Sprinkle tomato slices with salt and basil and arrange alternately with cheese slices on top of meat. Place under broiler just long enough to melt the cheese, about 1 minute. 6 servings.

| 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour | 2 tablespoons finely ground orange rind |
| 1 1/2 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder | 1 envelope unflavored gelatin |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | 2 cups unsweetened applesauce |
| 1/4 cup chilled Blue Bonnet Margarine or butter | 1/4 cup strained apricot jam |
| 1 cup chilled shortening | 3 tablespoons orange juice |
| 2 tablespoons cold water | 1 apple, core and peeled |
| 1 tablespoon orange juice (optional) | Sweetened whipped cream |

Preheat oven to 425°F (very hot). Flour, Magic Baking Powder and salt into bowl. Cut in Blue Bonnet Margarine or butter and shortening until mixture is like sand. Add orange juice and water one tablespoon orange juice and orange rind. Blend with a fork. Shape into a ball; knead on lightly floured board about ten times. Roll out into 12-inch circle. Fit into 9-inch pie plate, turn under overhanging dough; push up to form high-standing rim; crimp. Jury Returns Verdict in Hennessy Death

The inquest into the death of thirteen year old Dennis Hennessy, which occurred under tragic and unusual circumstances last August, was held in Silks Hall, Drayton Valley, with Provincial Coroner Dr. Kantor as presiding officer.

A large number of witnesses were called, including Corporal Stanley Zahradka, R.C.M.P. Edmonton, Corporal Mike Mergand, R.C.M.P. Edmonton, Corporal Peter Schaefer, R.C.M.P. Edmonton, Constable R.B. MacDonald, R.C.M.P. Drayton Valley, Dr. T.K. Shulka, of University Hospital, and John R. Bannan, neurologist, University of Alberta.

Others called to the witness stand included Ronald B. Cysa, who first found the body of the young lad, the afternoon of August 16, while he and Mrs. Cysa were walking along the riverbank, under the bridge, Dr. Stuart Gossens, who was called to the scene of the tragedy when the body was first found, the parents of the deceased boy, some of his youthful friends, and a few other local residents.

Testimony established that young Hennessy was apparently last seen alive just before 10 o'clock the evening of August 16, after he and some young friends had attended a show. Details were given of the search that was conducted for him, both in the area, and in other districts, with no results, until the finding of the body under the North Saskatchewan River Bridge, August 16th.

Dr. Shulka, of the Coroners' Department, and Mr. Bannan gave evidence relating to the autopsy conducted on the body. One thing brought out in the evidence showed that there had been no evidence of Criminal Assault.

The coroner jury were comprised of six local men, Mr. L. Bright, Mr. W.G. Johannessen, Mr. L. Bannan, Mr. B. Gooding, Mr. M. Bannan and Mr. W. Gooding.

When all available testimony was in Provincial Coroner Dr. Kantor submitted the evidence to the jury and they retired to consider the case. After about an hour and half of deliberation the jury brought in their verdict:

JURIES' VERDICT...

...we find that Herbert Dennis Hennessy, aged 13, of Drayton Valley, Alberta, died during the late evening of August 16th, or early morning of August 17th, from shock and hemorrhage, due to multiple chest and head injuries.

In our opinion part of these injuries were sustained before a fall from the road bridge over the North Saskatchewan River, about four miles east of the Town of Drayton Valley, Alberta. We find three injuries and the fall from the bridge, resulting in further injuries and death, was caused by a person or persons unknown.

MARCUS "MARK" H. CUNNINGHAM was born in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan. He attended school in Calgary, Regina and Buffalo, New York State. In 1950 he started mining at Bridge River, B.C. with his father Frank Cunningham. He worked as a miner for the next three or four years and in 1954 he moved and went to Quebec province. For the next six years he played drums in a well-known orchestra. In company with his wife who was known as that time as one of Canada's best pianists. Mark quit the orchestra when their first boy was born in 1960.

In 1968, again in company with his father, he formed MacDonald Mines, and worked in the capacity of sales manager and director with the company until 1984. During four years of the same period he was also playing with the orchestra, playing nights and weekends all over the East.

He retired from MacDonald Mines in 1964 and wanted the West Coast where, on a recovery fund he opened his own mine at Fort Abena, in 1966, after two years of scouting for suitable mining property. In 1967 the company commenced shipping ore to Trail, B.C. and Tacoma, Washington, America. However, after two years of operation market conditions in that phase of the mining industry got so bad that his company went bankrupt.

You may be surprised with the ease with which you can turn an ordinary shatter resistant into an attractive Christmas wall plaque. See the illustration for details.
Simply cover the face of the shatter resistant with a circular piece of any metallic gift-wrap and paste additional scenery thereon.
A small angel figure or paper cut-out is suggested for the foreground. Cotton puff clouds and gummed silver stars complete the scene.
Those who are creative may wish to think up other themes. Old magazines and Christmas cards are good places to explore such possibilities.

The Chapel Hour Life in His Name

By Rev. Robert J. McCracken

WE HAVE come again to the happy Advent season which leads to the anniversary of the coming of the Christ Child to earth. It is a time of devotion for all thoughtful Christian people, and a time for reflection on the basic beliefs we hold about the wondrous Nativity, and all that followed in the march of His ministry.

Three dominant tides comprise the greatest of all names: Lord Jesus Christ. What do we mean when we say that we believe in each of these, and in the unity of all? If I believe in a person, sincerely and profoundly, he not only has the assent of my mind, he has the loyalty of my heart and the allegiance of my will. I trust him. I rely on him. I am ready and eager to be of service to him. Nothing short of this is what is denoted by believing in Him because He became man for the sake of the world.

Lord, signifies supreme authority. It was the title given to Roman Emperors. In the Old Testament it is the title given to God. Yet in the New Testament it is applied to the lowly Galilean. Born of humble parents, brought up in the carpenter's bench, He was 30, then for three years a homeless itinerant preacher, owning no more than the clothes He wore. He was accorded the same title as Caesar, as is ascribed to God. Why? Because there was that in Him which men would call Master. By the irrepressible royalty of His person He drew men to Himself. And right down the centuries His magnificence has been the same.

Jesus is the name given at His birth, an honored and heroic name in Israel. We speak of the Jesus of history and we have many of very man, and yet He was unique in His humanity. In Jesus we see humanity at its highest, highest and best. Christ. To the devout few, Messiah is the name above every name, the Anointed One.

GOD HAS PREPARED THE WAY BEFORE ME

GOD HAS prepared the way before me. I need not pray to God to make a way for me, rather, I need to open my mind, heart, and life to His light, His love, His wisdom, His guidance.

As I open myself to God's light, I may discover that I have been telling God what to do, rather than listening for His guidance. In my prayers I may have only been submitting to God the pre-conceived plans that I considered necessary and important. Now I let go and let God. I take the words, "Be still, and know that I am God," and I wait and listen in the silence.

I say, "Thy will be done," knowing that the Father's will for me surpasses any human concept of good. As I let go, as I listen in the silence for inspiration of the Holy Spirit, I find release and a sure sense of God's presence. I know that He is with me. His light is shining upon me. His love is pouring through me. His power is present with me. Endowed with His Spirit I meet life with faith and go forward fearlessly, knowing that because I go with God, I go to meet my good.

My presence shall go with thee.—Exod. 33:14.

I find time to acknowledge the beauty of living.

I give a fair exchange for everything I receive.

CADET NEWS

This figure is somewhat lower than last year's membership, however, this has been a very successful year for the club in all phases of activity. Since its organization two years ago the Cadet Squadron has been a tremendous credit to the recreation program. The exact aims of the Air Cadet program explain this better than anything else. These aims are first, to encourage Air Cadets to develop the attributes of good citizenship; secondly, to stimulate in Air Cadets an interest in aviation and space technology; and thirdly, to help Air Cadets develop a high standard of physical fitness, mental alertness and discipline. Any program in the development of youth with such goals in mind is bound to make a favourable impression on the community in which it is sponsored and such a program is worth every penny of its public support.

We ask you to kindly support the Cadet Chocolate Sale Drive on December 6. By buying a box of chocolate from the uniformed Cadet who comes to your door, you will be contributing to a very worthy cause, that of promoting a youth program which is second to none in the development of the boy in spirit, mind, and body.

HOCKEY PROGRAM SET

The Minor Hockey program in Drayton Valley is all set. The only thing lacking is ice. Registrations have not been heavy but have been satisfactory. As soon as the rink is ready the program will get under way.

Minor Hockey in this community will be played at the Midglen Stadium, Post View and Mike Leves this season. We expect that about one hundred boys will take part in the program with about ten teams operating at a local level.

In 1950 he met the present Mrs Cunningham, who was well-known as a transcontinental stewardess with T.C.A. She had made many important flights with her company and knew personally many figures well-known in political and business fields. They were married in 1951.

For one year, following the closing of the mining operations Mrs Cunningham worked at various companies, including real estate from a Calgary central office. He helped her in all company, known as Asphal Oil Ltd. with holdings in North Central Alberta.

Figure Skating

The Drayton Valley Figure Skating Club will meet for the first time on Thursday, December 10, at the Jockey Consignment Park Skating Rink. All those planning to take part in the figure skating program are asked to be at the rink at 4:00 P.M.

The instructors for the coming season will be Mrs. Anne Gillis and Miss Linda McMorris. Both will be on hand for the opening Thursday evening.

With the increasing mild weather there is a possibility that skating may be curtailed by Thursday however, regardless of the weather conditions the Club will meet Thursday evening in order to complete registration and get the program officially under way.

The company drilled three holes, all of which were duds, ending in dry wells. In 1953, he shut down the oil company operations and moved east to Hamilton, Ontario, where his wife's parents resided.

He married as salesman for an aluminum sash and door company, and worked up to the position of area manager. In 1957 he came west to Alberta and became Drayton Valley in 1961.

Mark is now employed with OIL King Motors as a used car salesman. Mrs Cunningham is teaching school and serves at the local hospital when needed. They have three children, Marcia, 11, Mark 9, and Frank, aged 4.

The Cunninghams like Drayton Valley very much and, feel that this is their home.

was at the Shell Station where a gas pump was on fire. In the last place the fire had been extinguished with snow before the arrival of the fire ladders.

However, we never cease to marvel at the speed with which the firemen can come from various parts of town to get the fire apparatus underway. Good work, boys.

Inspired by a daily paper headline "NO FLAG BY CHRISTMAS" we recently went into communication with ourselves and came up with the following poetic masterpiece, which we sent by night telegram to the Hon. L.B. Pearson in Ottawa:

Dear Santa Claus Pearson:
I want my flag.
I thought it would be in Santa's bag.
Please don't let your elfen bow.
When first I heard the horrid news,
That Santa would not bring the Christmas flag,
I thought it but a newsmen's tale.
Some wild statement of unorthodox views.
That dear to lightly with that flag.
You promised us a brand-new flag.
By Christmas.
By love.
(Or should we say: By lastest.)

Anyone think we should go on postcarding on a full-time basis?

KEEP FIT PROGRAM PROGRESS

The Drayton Valley Men's Keep Fit Club has been operating on a very favorable basis during the past two months. The program under the leadership of Bob Mayhew after something for the average fellow who feels that he needs a bit of additional physical exercise in order to keep fit and trim.

The Club activities are held every Monday and Thursday evening from 8 p.m. till 10 p.m. in the New Elementary School Gymnasium. As Club instructor, Mayhew offers varied and progressive program. This is a weight lifting or body building class nor it is a Charles Atlas course promoting "Evolving Health and Strength". It is a progressive and carefully planned program offering those involved a healthy selection of calisthenics prescribed to promote a good degree of physical fitness. The main idea behind this program is to develop physical fitness and have an enjoyable time doing it.

Presently the Club is composed of some eighteen members. The registration fee for the entire season is $4.00 per person. The boys will be closing down shop for two or three weeks over the holiday season. Classes will be resumed about mid January. At that time an "Open Night" is planned. That is an evening when the general public will be invited to come in and have a look at the Keep Fit program and the types of exercises and training that it is using. New members are a heavy welcome and it is hoped that the Club membership will increase somewhat after the program gets under way again in 1965.

If Canada were to change to the metric system, as urged by many countries, it would sound rather odd to hear a Canadian say, "I wouldn't touch it with a 3300 meter pole."

WHY YOU SHOULD WEAR ACCUTRON INSTEAD OF A WATCH!

A Research breakthrough by BULOVA

The world's only electronic time piece... The Bulova Accutron, can be seen at LLOYD'S JEWELRY in Drayton Valley. The Accutron, with just 12 moving parts, is so rugged, so trouble free, you can forget about the usual maintenance and repair. It keeps time by the constant vibrations of a tuning fork activated electrically, it doesn't tick... it hums. Another thing... you never have to wind the Accutron time piece... it's run economically by cells. See the new Bulova Accutron on display now at LLOYD'S JEWELRY, DRAYTON VALLEY.

Town, village, cities, making films, restaurants, all companies, stores and other interested organizations will promote the S-D Week story in the form of place mats, lapel cards, counter cards, posters and reminders to their employees.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council has predicted that at least 50 Canadians will die on the Highway during the 7-day period commencing at midnight November 30 and ending at midnight December 7th. It is believed that British Columbia could have 4 fatalities, the prairie provinces 9, Ontario 16, Quebec 15 and the Atlantic provinces 8. Last year 58 persons were killed during S-D Week and the all time high of 70 deaths occurred in 1962.

He is easily spooked, and he is deterred by other drivers, pedestrians, and traffic officers. It is hoped that the habits of thinking of others can keep you from being one of his kind." In a closing statement he added, "I hope that all drivers in the province will remember Safe-Driver Week and that others take to the way they drive."

Dr. HORNER REPORTS FROM PARLIAMENT HILL - November 25, 1964

The attempted crucifixion of John Diefenbaker continues unabated.

One cannot help but wonder why? It is because he won't make any deal? It is because he has told the vested interests it's time they got off the gravy train? It is because these same interests control the press? It is because he wouldn't play any political bumpy-panky?

Yet through it all, he stands unshaken. He has the same and fight of one who based his decisions on what he thought was right. It is history in government such a bad thing that one is crucified for it. I think not, more and more it becomes apparent that we need more of it.

Most Americans live dangerously and others can't afford cars.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

The last day of the old year is celebrated in many ways, particularly by the parading crowds. If you are wise, you will use your transportation if you have, for the road! coffee or tea, to travel on that evening. For, whether you drive or walk.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS: In several spots around town the festive season is noted by decorations. The Town Office looks very nice and Christmas, the Downtown section, with the lights over the street, and Northern Village lights, on top of their building really show up nice at night.

This Is "Big Smoke" Headline Compensation Determined In Oil Firm's Farm Damage

Orders have gone out to four Easyford farmers informing them of arbitration board awards for damage done to their property through oil development.

The farmers last month took their dispute with Canada-Cities Service Petroleum Corporation over equitable compensation for property damage to the Right of Entry Arbitration Board.

CROSSED PROPERTY
The Calgary-based oil firm had crossed their property in relaying flow lines.

Arbitration board chairman Thomas Stickney said Monday he believed settlement imposed by the board will satisfy parties involved. He said the board awarded compensation at 150 an acre for uncultivated land.

FLAT RATE OFFER
Earlier the oil company had offered the farmers a flat rate for damage done. A company spokesman said following the board hearing that a number of other farmers in the area had accepted this offer quite readily.

Mr. Stickney said that one of the farmers who appealed to the board may possibly suffer crop loss for two years. He said the farmer is to receive compensation for this when full extent of the loss is determined.

The board chairman observed that the oil company had earlier come to agreement with another of the farmers, concerning compensation for timber loss.

THIS HEADLINE AND MR. STICKNEY'S STATEMENTS WERE IN A RECENT ISSUE OF THE JOURNAL.

This Is "Little Fire" Compensation

Below is a copy of the cheque and a letter sent by the Arbitration Board to Mrs. Nancy Little, of Easyford, one of the land-owners mentioned in Mr. Stickney's statement. Others in the area received similar amounts, according to information received.

Frequently the Journal's Ruth Bowen comes up with some excellent writing. A few weeks ago she had a fine article on early-day river-boats and the pull on old McDougall Methodist Mission. This week we feel this bit on "PIPES" is unusually good, so we take the liberty to publish it here.

Pipe Dreams

There's one thing about smoking a pipe, you might live to be 108 like Mrs. Nancy Smart of Nankin township near Detroit.

Mrs. Smart says she has a pipe after every meal. This comes just at the time when the smoke is dying round the luncheon tables. And at banquets, when the occasional smoke plume rises it's like an Indian signal.

There used to be a fog across the room. Friends who have given up smoking seem more to have drifted out of the habit than to have fought the great fight. Of course there are others who supplement, by pipe or cigar. I haven't met anyone who would admit she was scared out of the habit. But it's a fact, after any big party the smokers around the luncheon or dinner tables are now in the minority.

One friend likes to light up a cigar after meals. She insists it's not a cigar but a large cigarette and that one a day suffices. It still looks like a cigar and waiters leap across the room to light it.

The friends who have taken up the pipe sit contentedly puffing matches, pressing in the tobacco with one finger—you can buy the tobacco in flower scents. You also can buy feminine pipes with little jewels set around the bowl—pink or blue or white, who said ruby, emerald or diamond.

But the pipe gives that comfortable old stogie look. What more could a girl ask than slippers, a devoted dog, and an old arm chair? Then sit pipe in hand looking like a philosopher, sucking gently, giving a tentative puff and a nod when the embers seem to die lighting another.

It's relaxed just to think about it. . . or maybe to think about it is to relax until you reach a ripe old 108.

Scoop's NOTEBOOK

Friends of the Malchuk family were saddened recently to hear of the sudden death of Leo Malchuk, whose body was found in a gas plant in the Penn district the morning of December 8th. He had been shot through the heart. An investigation is being conducted into the matter.

Mr. Helen Holube, with daughter Gayle, left three weeks ago for Vancouver. Mrs. Holube is working in a florist shop there. She had lived in the Coast City for some time previously to coming to Alberta, and to Drayton Valley.

Leaving on December 15th for a well-earned holiday is Mike Gormley. Mike will be accompanied by his mother as far as Timbuctoo, Miss. P.O. their home before coming to the west.

Mrs. Gormley will remain in the hometown while Michael makes a long trip through the eastern States to Washington, D.C., returning by way of the mid-western states to be home in time for Christmas.

Mike will look over recreation at programs while on his trip.

When local R.C.M.P. officers went out to Lodgepole to investigate the case of a man still in his 30's who had given some burn checks in the area, they hardly expected to turn up a big-time bigamist.

But such they did. One Seward Paul Garwood had come to Lodgepole stating he was going to re-open a restaurant. He engaged two pretty waitresses, gave out a number of cheques for supplies, opened for a few days, and then when time came on a certain Monday morning to open for business Mr. Garwood could not be found.

He was found some time later, working as a beer-tender in Terrace, B.C. and local R.C.M.P. men went to bring him back.

BUT... investigations turned up the fact that he had been married some eight or nine times, apparently without going through the formality of a divorce, or should we use the phrase "it"?

He will be brought to Drayton Valley for preliminary hearing.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Combs, of Rocky Bay, returned home to their farm after a motor trip to Williams Lake, B.C. where they visited son Aubrey and his family and daughter Mona and her family. They also went over to Summit Lake, B.C. where they visited daughter Lona Mae and family.

Aubrey is working at driving trucks for a company at Williams Lake and son-in-law Lloyd Tarnwell is doing some mining in the area. Son-in-law Alfred Johnson is working in the woods.

They went by way of Rogers Pass, visiting Mrs. Combs' mother at Blackfalds, Alberta en route.

Language of Incas Survives Time

The language of the ancient Incas not only survives today; it is more widely used than in their heyday four centuries ago.

Quechua is the only language spoken by millions of present day inhabitants of Peru, Bolivia, and Ecuador. There are about 28 dialects, the National Geographic Society says.

Essentially, the spread of Quechua was partly the work of Spanish missionaries who followed in the footsteps of the empire-shattering conquistadors. Having learned this one Indian tongue, the priests hoped Quechua on tribes that had never spoken it even under Inca domination and brought it to others outside the Inca domain.

Little Being Translated

Today, missionaries are again learning the language to work among the Indians. The little being translated into Quechua.

At several universities—Cuzco in the United States and San Marcos and Huamanga in Peru—Quechua is taught to students planning social service careers in western South America.

Tough Spanish is spreading slowly among Indians through the increase of educational facilities, the language barrier is narrow.

An estimated five million Peruvian Indians speak only Quechua. In Ecuador, more than half a million use two of its dialects; in Bolivia somewhat fewer speak Quechua and Aymara, a related language.

The modern linguist translating the little into Quechua meets with great difficulties in vocabulary and grammar. The language lacks many words common to Indo-European languages. And translating philosophical concepts can lead into verbal acrobatics.

Mrs. Julia Woodward of the Gospel Missionary Union reported that to translate "For there is no respect of persons with God" (Romans 2:11), she had to resort to the Quechuan equivalent of "God to one rather than another not says: 'You are better.'"

The grammatical structure of Quechua, with its multiplicity of suffixes and particles, makes it more complicated than most languages.

This Week's Cover

At this time of the year, when preparations are being made throughout the West for the great festival of Christmas, the picture on this week's front cover is much more appropriate than it may seem at first glance.

It is a picture of the International Hostel of the C.N.C.A. at Bethlehem—erected on the field where, 2,000 years ago, shepherds grazed their sheep and heard the angels sing on the night that Jesus was born.

The full story of this unusual hostel, and how it came to be built, will be found on Page 4 of this issue of Western Weekly Supplement.

THE WESTERN FARM SCENE

By Grand MacEwan

"The Canadian Royal"

The Canadian Royal, held annually at Toronto, is a fair with a thousand faces and a thousand pleasant smells. Supported by all the provinces, it becomes more handsome as it becomes more expensive. The 1964 event looked like the biggest and best in the history of this show which had its beginning in 1922.

Already the Royal is the largest in the world for a show of its kind held under one roof. It is easy for the visitor to become leg weary, trying to see the hundreds of exhibits between the Horse Palace and the Hall of Fame. An international character becomes more and more evident. This year's exhibits came from nine provinces in Canada, 18 states in the neighboring Union and, altogether, 14 countries. An offer of $156,000 in prizes must be seen as a big inducement to exhibitors but still bigger is the prestige of ribbons and trophies bearing the name of Canadian Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Bringing together the choicest of farm products, the Royal has been described as the Show Window of Agriculture. But the still further presented features go far beyond the fruits of the soil. Rural and urban people find many common interests there.

In addition to the 5,000 cattle, sheep and pigs and 1,000 horses stabled under the huge roof during the period of the show, there are the Grain Show, Fruit and Vegetable Show, Poultry and Egg Show, Flower Show, Christmas Tree Show, machinery display, Food Fair Theatre, Salon of Photography, tropical fish displays, Fashion Show and, of course, the colorful evening Horse Show with its international jumping events.

Contrasts and extremes can be expected to stimulate interest. Here are the proudest, sweetest, strongest, costliest, smallest and biggest in agricultural production. Visitors this year saw ponies small enough to be accommodated in dog kennels, a Holstein bull weighing 3,000 pounds and, believe it or not, a squash weighing 180 pounds.

Of growing interest is the Agricultural Hall of Fame, already big enough to hold its visitors for long spells. The Royal holds its popularity for everybody.

As in previous years, western hats and western faces were conspicuous at the 1964 show. Traditionally, western entries have dominated the classes for steers and grains. This year, for the first time in the history of the show, however, the grand championship in fat steers—perhaps the most coveted award of all—went to an entry from outside the country. Understandably, the win for the United States exhibitor was met with rather mixed reactions. Canadians have invited international competition and insisted that the highest awards in certain sections like wheat and oats, must rate as World Championships. Nevertheless, there was an evident degree of disappointment when the supreme award in steers was not captured by a Canadian entry.

Western Weekly Supplement — Wednesday, December 9, 1964

The Fair That Belongs To All Canada

The grand championship ribbon for steers was won by Meadow Lane Farm, New York, and the reserve grand championship was gained by another American entry, that of Rocky Ridge Farm, Waterville, Ohio.

Both the grand champion and reserve grand champion steers were representatives of the Aberdeen Angus breed, as, indeed, was the champion beef carcass. The latter was one weighing 516 pounds, from a black steer of 880 pounds, property of George Anderson of Orillia.

Royal Winter Fair Manager W. P. Watson is anxious to see more emphasis on performance and utility in meat animals, and carcass classes can be expected to expand. There was obvious interest and educational value in this year's well-filled classes for beef, bacon and lamb carcasses, and men leaning close to the glass fronts of refrigerated show cases were heard talking about muscle development, size of eye-lean and optimum covering of fat. Only in the carcasses can these qualities be assessed accurately.

This year's championship in dressed lambs was a 46-pound Southdown carcass, exhibited by Murray Stewart of Guelph. It sold at $2.50 per pound.

Western Canada gained the highest honors in the group classes for steers. Winning the carload championship was the McIntyre Ranching Co. of Lethbridge, with 12 uniform Herefords, and winning the championship in pens of five fats was the entry of red Shorthorns from the farm of Alex McPhail and Sons, Brandon, Manitoba.

The Royal's international character is demonstrated most clearly in the Grain Show where, in 1964, the wheat and flax championships were won for Alberta, the oat championship for Manitoba, the rye championship for Ontario, the barley and forage seed championships for England, the reserve championship in oats for Scotland and the corn championship for United States.

Once again, it was a sample of wheat grown in the area northeast of Calgary which won the world championship in wheat, the exhibitor being 19-year-old Lawrence Gibson whose home is at Carbon but was attending classes in first year education at University of Alberta, Calgary, when the news of triumph reached him. The particular wheat was Chinook, grown in connection with young Gibson's 4-H Club project.

As is generally the case in showing grains, growing the crop is only a part of the task. Most championship samples consume many hours of hand picking and preparation in Lawrence Gibson's case, he started with four bushels and worked patiently for a week in reducing the quantity to the desired 15 pounds of near-faultless seeds.

An astronaut's tool kit holds devices such as a spanner, pliers, and set. A spanner is a space hammer, a pliers a combination of pliers and wrench, and a set a zero reaction tool. The Kremlin, meaning simply "citadel" is the oldest and most strategic part of Moscow, the National Geographic says. Within the walled fortifications are old royal palaces, governmental bureaus, and churches where the tsars were crowned and buried. Some government offices, including that of the Premier, are still located there.

Site of Blast Desolate Area

Sinking, site of China's first atomic explosion, has all the geographic qualifications for a nuclear testing ground.

Like the desolate test areas of New Mexico, Nevada, Siberia, and the Sahara, Communist China's westernmost province has rugged mountains, wind-swept plains, and trackless deserts. Its name means "New Frontier."

The announced location of the explosion—the marshy salt flats near Lop Nor Lake on the eastern edge of the mile-high Takla Makan desert—lies far from Sinking's scattered small pockets of population.

Remote Sinking is China's biggest and least populated province. It is four times bigger than California. Some 5,640,000 people farm in oases and fertile river valleys, leaving most of the 636,000 square miles to nomadic herdsmen and wildlife—the wapti, fox and great-horned wild sheep.

Wild West Capital

Sinking's capital and only large city—Urumchi—looks like an American Wild West town. The dusty main street is lined with frame buildings. Shoppers arrive on horseback or jup-hung camels. Backroads serve as trails.

The Chinese Communists claim that government projects in reclamation and irrigation for farming. Fields of melons, grapes, wheat, cotton, and corn now stretch far beyond the oases and river valleys. Chinese Army troops help out as technicians and construction workers.

Although Sinking has primarily an agricultural economy, it is rich in petroleum, iron ore, and uranium. Engineers are also supposedly mining strategic materials such as tungsten and molybdenum. Small factories in Urumchi produce woolen and silk textiles, carpets, leather, and metal work.

Ancient Chinese customs, however, sometimes add a unique twist to the machine age. Several years ago France Shor, senior assistant editor of National Geographic, took a 125-mile bus ride in Sinking. The road was fine, but the driver, wanting to show off his mechanical skills to the passengers, stopped five times just to strip and reassemble the generator and carburetor. The trip took nine hours. "Mechanical transportation has simply added another facet to the ancient Chinese custom of 'making face,'" wrote Mr. Shor.

People Mostly Moslem

Sinking was once part of ancient Turkistan, and it contains a large majority of non-Chinese today. Most are Moslems. Tribes include the Uighurs, Kazakhs, Kirghiz, Tajiks, Mongols, and Tartars. Some of these nomadic tribesmen hunt with trained eagles. The Kazakhs, who claim descent from Genghis Khan, yodel and wear cowboy hats topped with owl feathers.

Sinking has long offered scientists and explorers all the excitement of a giant grab bag. Ruins of ancient cities lie buried beneath the sand seas. There are traces of trails worn by migrating prehistoric peoples.

Sinking has always been on the road to somewhere. The first silk brought from China to Europe passed through the land. Chinese pilgrims crossed the desert in search of Buddhist knowledge at its Indian source. Marco Polo stopped at caravanaries in the 13th century to admire the carpets and jade, still crafted in Sinking today.

THE DEVIL'S HORNS

Freak Moose Horns

By Francis Doherty
Harlot Bay, B.C.

Here, in Cree language, is 'Wetogo' — the Devil's Horn. Photograph shows the only antlers ever seen. These present an unexplained biological mystery in natural history regarding the moose. Why, of the many 100,000's moose killed for food and trophies during centuries in the vast forest wilderness of Ontario, has been found just one such specimen?

On a winter afternoon, Henry Woodsworth, Hudson's Bay Factor at Robert's Post in northern Ontario, was startled as a frightened Indian hunter rushed in. "I have just shot a 'Wetogo' moose. I did not see its head in the thick woods or I never would have fired at it!" The hunter, though refusing to return, gave the factor directions; he found the animal, saved the meat, brought out the horns. However, after hanging these in the Post store, he quickly removed the freak, because all the old Indians fled after entering at sight of this abnormal object.

Later, the horns were brought to the Chaplain headquarters of the Department of Lands and Forests by Senior Conservation Officer Vince Crichien. Here, again the horns were sent to the wall; when an Indian woman happened to enter, she gave a cry of fright, covered her face and ran out.

Other strange factors are that the Cree Indians have for many years been converted to Christianity. Also, conservation officers' research has not heard of any Cree legend explaining this fear of the strange moose horns. As no similar find of such horns is recorded, probably the fear caused at sight of these is based on primitive Indian belief that ill-fortune attaches to seeing anything abnormal in animals. To the Indians such unnatural condition is evidence of supernatural evil causing human harm.

The horns look like coral, though the color is normal. The spread is 41 inches, light weight of 18 pounds, as compared to the photograph of a record normal spread of 66 inches, with about three times the weight. As further example of the amazing singularity, it is interesting in comparison to give report of R. S. Hyden, Regional Forester; Annual Moose census in Ontario, 1956-1957, was 70,500, made by air, land and water; calf increase would bring number to about 100,000 in 1957-58. Only 8,000 shot. Allowing only half this number killed yearly for 100 past years, that only one such set of antlers has ever been reported makes the 'Wetogo' horns the more remarkable or unique.

Where Shepherds Watched

It's Christmas Eve, and as dusk settles over the ancient Biblical town of Bethlehem, the sound of singing voices drifts over the countryside from a field a mile away.

To the field come pilgrims and visitors from many lands. They come to hear the old, familiar story of Christ's birth retold in a simple service of worship. For it is in this very field, Holy Land dwellers say, that shepherds grazed their sheep and heard angels sing the night Jesus was born nearly 2,000 years ago.

Once called Tel Boaz, the field is now known as the "Field of the Shepherds." It belongs to the YMCA.

Acquired just before World War I, the 10-acre field was once marked by only a rough stone wall. It was while clearing the land to build this wall that a large, two room cave was discovered. Remnants found in the cave proved that it was used during early Christian days.

Ever since this important discovery, a special service has been held in the field each Christmas Eve by members and friends of the YMCA.

The service is a simple one. And this adds to its beauty and meaning. Worshipers hear the Christmas story as recorded in the Bible, broken only by the singing of joyous carols by a small choir in the background.

After a brief message and prayer, worshipers enter the cave to eat a shepherd's meal of lamb and bread, baked there earlier in the day, and now cut into pie-shaped sandwiches.

Over the passing years, more and more people have attended the YMCA's "Field of the Shepherds" Christmas service. During World War II, thousands of Allied servicemen from all countries took part. Trucks lined the road for a mile or more. Loudspeakers carried the voices of chaplains conducting the service. And despite the multitude present, a quiet feeling of spiritual solitude reigned over all.

Today a grove of sturdy pine trees protects the ancient cave. And beyond it, the YMCA has built a camp for refugees youth.

The Shepherds Field is certainly not just a shrine or museum-piece. It is a year-round place of activity.

In 1935, an attractive hotel was built by the International Committee of the YMCA, New York. It serves as a retreat and a summer camp center, and is ideally situated to serve both purposes. To people no longer young, its serenity and simplicity assure rest and inspiration, and it's an ideal spot for leaders of the YMCA to meet and plan their work.

During the summer, 180 boys camp on the sacred grounds in two-week shifts. Away from the Old City of Jerusalem with its crowded streets, it has plenty of room for all sorts of games and constructive recreation.

In the summer of 1939, the Shepherds

Field resort was opened to the YMCA for a 10-day camp for school-girls. They came from Amman, Jericho, and Jerusalem.

The YMCA's Field of the Shepherds is a haunting symbol of peace and brotherhood in the divided city of Jerusalem. Since 1948, the old walled city has been ruled by the Arab kingdom of Jordan. To the west of it spreads modern Jerusalem, the capital of Israel. Tangled barbed wire and barbed fences mark the dividing line. No one is allowed to cross it except through the Mandelbaum Gate, where passes are closely examined. At Christmas time this gate is crowded with pilgrims passing through to visit the holy places revered by Christianity.

Jerusalem stands on a rocky spur of the Judean Hills about 2,500 feet above sea level. About 35 miles to the west is the Mediterranean Sea. Bethlehem of Judea, the birthplace of Christ, is about six miles from Jerusalem. It is believed that shepherds from the Field of the Shepherds were guided by the words of an angel to the cave-stable in which the Christ child was born that very first Christmas long ago. Jerusalem itself is, of course, sacred to all Christians because of its associations with Christ. This Christmas, people once again will gather at the Field of the Shepherds to celebrate anew the birth of Christ. As they do, they will re-dedicate themselves in spirit with people the world over to a living belief in the Brotherhood of Man as seen in the life of one born in Bethlehem centuries ago.

Small Fry Humor

Mr. G., the teacher had assigned "Little Alex" to write a little story for homework over the weekend. Early Monday morning "Little Alex" handed the short story to Mr. G. and told him that he had to miss Church Services Sunday night so as to finish his story. Mr. G. told him he shouldn't have missed Church Services just on account of this little story. "Little Alex" replied: I knew God would forgive me but Mr. G., you would NEVER forgive me.

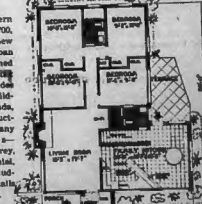

This "Small Fry" story was sent by Mr. Albert Ganser (Mr. G.) Provost, Alberta.

No longer does it come as a surprise when an Alberta entry emerges with the honor of World Championship at the Royal. The Lawrence Gibson triumph was the 13th for Alberta in the last 18 years. The other supreme awards in the 18 years included one each for Ontario, Saskatchewan and England, and two for British Columbia. The exhibitor of the 1963 wheat championship, George Luo, Lethbridge, was reserve winner this year.

The Alberta exhibitor gained the World Championship for flax was Harold E. Hansen from Ensign, and the westerner to take the corresponding trophy in oats was William Whitlock, Kellwood, Manitoba. The winning oat sample was Garry but the champion barley from Colchester, England, carried a variety name which would be unfamiliar to Canadians. The champion sample of forage seed, entered by B. W. Crick and Son from England, happened to be red clover seed.

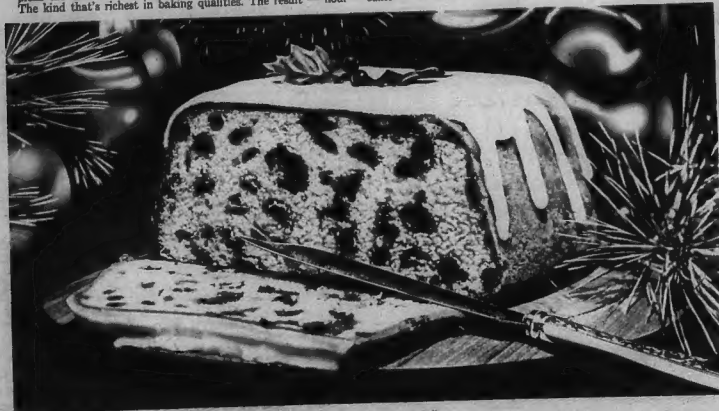

Western Provinces have been among the best and most consistent supporters of the Royal Winter Fair. Alberta's 1964 exhibits in livestock alone occupied 22 cars — 16 cars in livestock alone occupied 22 cars — 16 cars and loads of cattle, three carloads of pigs and sheep and one carload of horses. Manitoba and Saskatchewan have sent exhibits of similar proportion. At a time when Canadian bonds of unity are being strained, it should be noted that the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair is and always has been a unifying force of consequence.

CRANBERRY CASSEROLE BREAD: A tested Christmas favourite from the Five Roses kitchens

2 cups Five Roses Pre-Sifted Flour
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon grated orange rind
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 eggs, well beaten
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup coarsely chopped cranberries
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped glace green cherries
1/2 cup shortening

Stir Five Roses Flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt together. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse cornmeal. Combine orange juice and grated rind with well-beaten eggs. Pour all at once into dry ingredients, mixing just enough to dampen. Dust all chopped cranberries and cherries with a tablespoon of flour; carefully fold into batter. Spoon into a well greased 1 1/2 quart casserole. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) about 1 hour or until toothpick inserted in centre comes out clean. Cool in casserole 10 minutes, then remove. Store overnight for easy slicing. Frost with Confectioners Frosting or serve slices with butter. Delicious when toasted under broiler. Confectioners Frosting: Sift 2 cups icing sugar. Very slowly add boiling water, a tablespoon at a time, until right spreading consistency.
